

Al-Maktoum Institute Academic Press

The Architectural Development Of Al-Aqsa Mosque in The Early Islamic Period

Sacred Architectural in the shape of the 'Holy'

Haithem F. Al-Ratrouf

This monograph aims to introduce a definition of al-Aqsa Mosque and to understand its architectural development and evolution in the early Muslim Period within the Cultural Context of the Site. The book is an innovative and creative work on al-Aqsa which reveals a new dimension on early Muslim architecture. This leading monograph written by the promising young scholar Haithem al-Ratrouf is an essential contribution to our knowledge on the new field of inquiry of Islamic Jerusalem Studies. One of the contributions of this important monograph is its use of innovative approaches of the new field of inquiry. Al-Ratrouf uses architectural, archeological and historical investigations of the early Muslim architecture of the Al-Aqsa enclave within the Muslim cultural context.

Haithem F. Al-Ratrouf is an Assistant Professor at An-Najah University, Palestine.

ISBN: 1-904436-03-X (pb) * 678pp * 2004 * £25.00

ORDER FORM

To order please return this form to Al-Maktoum Institute Academic Press, 124 Blackness Road, Dundee, DD1 5PE, Scotland, United Kingdom.

Please send copy/copies of The Architectural Development Of Al-Aqsa Mosque in The Early Islamic Period at £25.00 each. Please add a standard postage charge of £3.00 for UK (£7.50 for international) per copy.

I enclose a cheque for £ Made payable to Al-Maktoum Institute.

Name (please print)

Address

E-mail Telephone

Signature Date

We endeavour to dispatch all orders within 5 working days

Al-Maktoum Institute Academic Press, 124 Blackness Road, Dundee, DD1 5PE
TEL: +44 (0)1382 908070 FAX: +44 (0)1382 908077 www.almipress.com